STIRRING TALK BY REV. RICH

Graduates Listen to Inspiring Address Last Evening

Members of the senior class of the Hancock high school, who will graduate next Wednesday evening, attended the First Methodist Episcopal church in a body last evening when they listened to an inspiring baccalaureate address delivered by Rev. U. G. Rich, pastor of the First Congregational church.

The baccalaureate exercises were a great success and a large number of local people were in attendance. The talk given by Rev. Rich was especially pleasing and his auditors enjoyed it immensely.

The subject of the address of Rev. Rich was "Wisdom's Appeal," Matthew 23:1-12. In part Rev. Rich said:

"It is the National Flag day, and the annual observance of this day and the occasion that brings us together tonight speak in eloquent terms of privilege and duty and how we may attain unto greatness in a character influence that will leave behind us not an unblemished record but a record that will stir every latent talent of manhood and womanhood into a useful activity."

"Long ago, while a baccalaureate feast was in progress Belshazzar saw a hand writing a message to him on the wall of the banquet hall. It read in part, 'Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting.'"

"Great privileges and opportunities had been forfeited and lost through lack of devotion to high ideals and of progressive effort to be worthy of the obligations resting upon him."

"The words traced by the finger of God were a final message, a message that has written in enduring characters the story of a monumental failure where there might have been written the story of high honor and deserved success."

"The words of our text are spoken by the lips of Jesus and present their appeal and frame their reasonable argument at the threshold of all responsible careers. Many have endeavored to secure entrance to the palace of success by some other way than the divinely adequate testimony to the fact that he who disregards the words of God closes by his own decision and with his own hands every possible door that leads to the real success of life."

"Great responsibility and great obligation rest upon each of our lives. 'But they are such as are common to all humanity and therefore appeal to us with all their possibilities of happy and helpful fruition.'"

"Two great opportunities for the most worthy application of our resources are placed before us. First we are to be true and loyal in our allegiance to and support of the National Government under which we live."

"You have journeyed thus far because of the way prepared before you, a way that has been kept open and up to the present high standard of promise and efficiency because of the love of love and the laws of country. The flag that has waved over you in its message and declaration of protection and blessing has been held in position over your lives by the united love and strength of your fathers and mothers and the loyal and true co-operation of friends and neighbors."

"In the progress of life the Lord asks you to consider your privilege to be a standard bearer; to be as loyal and true in defending and maintaining all the powers and blessings of our government as have others before you."

"Should you ever dishonor the flag of our nation you will by the same act dishonor yourself and fix upon your heart and character a stain that will be hard to remove."

Benedict Arnold washed his stain in the bitter tears of his very soul, but the stain had burned so deep that no remorse, no self condemnation, no willingness to make amends were ever able to rehabilitate him in honor beneath the folds of the flag he had dishonored and betrayed."

"Our obligation to patriotism is one of the greatest obligations in our lives. 'It is the obligation to freely give of ourselves that the civil future of our nation may be an unbroken record of honorable progress and uplifting power at home and abroad.'"

"Within us is the mighty power of making our lives speak by every means of expression the message that first sounded more than a century ago, that echoed and re-echoed a half century ago and today reiterates with an authority of utterance that commands our attention and allegiance—be true and loyal to the constitution, principles and flag of our country."

"Daniel Webster said—'The world will cry shame upon us if we show ourselves unworthy to be the descendants of those great and illustrious men who fought for their liberty and secured it to their posterity by the Constitution of the United States.'"

"The Constitution of the United States is not a Bible but it is a text book of good citizenship which because of its orderly and exalted purpose makes it easier and more natural to obey the laws of God as they are given in their sublime order and purpose."

"God has given us laws that look to normal growth in religious experience and if we are to grow His way we must surrender every motive and possession in our lives that bars the way to the attainment of a normal and correct relationship to God."

"God's laws and purposes will forever remain unchanged because they are the perfection of wisdom and application by which man is to know, love and enjoy personal righteousness."

"Deep down in his heart every human being possesses a wealth that may enrich human life if used; a wealth placed there by the love and generosity of God; a wealth that lifts in high honor the life that has understood obligation in its highest application."

"This wealth is the wisdom, understanding and ability that open to us the doors by means of which we may move forward into possible perfection but always into high usefulness in righteousness."

"What is there about us that belongs to God that we should give to Him as His right, and as an expression of our willingness and desire to be in all things honest with the God of our salvation?"

"Our lives belong to Him because He gave them to the world and is to require their use at our hands."

"Our natural endowments and abilities belong to Him because they are in every instance directly traceable to Him as having been supplied to us by His power and of His resources."

"Our opportunities are an evidence of His favor to us as He is the Creator of the world and it's every force and resource that we have and use, therefore the products and results that accrue from such use belong to Him."

"Our material wealth belongs to Him because it is a matter of record and of fact that we brought nothing into this world and can carry nothing out, that all wealth is God's loaned to man to use during life."

"Our love and devotion belong to Him as love and devotion is the natural and logical right of the one to whom we owe every advantage and every success we have achieved."

"Our service belongs to Him because it is man's honest obligation to serve in grateful unselfishness the one from whom he has received the every means by which he is able to serve at all; and because life's effort becomes increased in honor and blessing as it is directed in offering to those most worthy to receive it."

"Our souls belong to Him because we are the children of His immortality. 'The obligation to render unto God the things that are God's is the first and highest obligation of our lives.'"

The invocation was delivered by Rev. Reuben Crosby, pastor of the M. E. church. A selection entitled "Unfold Ye Portals" was rendered by the teacher's glee club and an anthem by the M. E. church choir, "The Heavens Are Telling." A combined selection, "God Is a Spirit" was also rendered by the combined choir and glee club. The benediction was given by Rev. Crosby.

He will deliver the commencement addresses to the Palmsdale, Hancock, Houghton, Calumet, Dollar Bay and Lake Linden graduates.

ADOPT BIG BROTHER PLAN.
Hancock Elks have adopted the "big brother" movement and a committee consisting of Eneas McAuley, James Sullivan and Secretary Norman Warren has been appointed by Exalted Ruler F. M. Pennington to assume charge of this work. The movement originated a year ago and Elks lodges in all of the larger cities immediately in line of the effort. The object is purely charitable and is in line with the precepts of the order of Elks.

ASK U. P. ROADS TO MAKE REFUND

Michigan Traveling Men Take Action at Annual Convention

The twenty-first annual convention of the Michigan United Commercial Travelers was brought to a close Saturday at Saginaw with a big parade and baseball games in the morning and the final baseball contest in the afternoon. Preceding the procession cannon were fired by Saginaw Naval Reserves and 43 bombs were exploded. About 2,000 marched in the parade, including state troops from several cities and councils from Michigan cities.

Ask For Refund.
At the business sessions Friday the delegates endorsed the proposed law making it possible to vote by mail and favored action to compel upper peninsula railroads to refund one-half cent per mile on the three-cent rate being charged. Lansing was selected for the 1914 convention, which will be held the first Friday and Saturday in June.

INSTRUCTOR IS BANQUETED.
W. H. Cain, New Hancock Principal is Given Farewell Fete.

W. H. Cain, instructor in mathematics at the Central high school, Kalamazoo, who comes to Hancock in September to become principal of the public schools was the honor guest at a farewell banquet this week. Concerning the event, a Kalamazoo dispatch says:

"Last night the members of the Forum, The Lincoln, and the Cicero literary and debating clubs of Central High gave one of the finest banquets of the year in honor of W. H. Cain of the mathematics department of the Central high school."

"While he has been here only two years he has helped to organize the three leading debating and literary societies of the school; namely, the Forum, the Lincoln Literary and the Cicero. He has at all times been faithful to these societies and has assisted them in working out their difficulties. He coached the team that debated with Battle Creek and in fact secured the first inter-scholastic debate for the school. He has taken part in all the social functions of the school since he came here and has proved himself worth the greatest consideration."
